Q: Does your library need a Web site?

A: The Nebraska Library Commission can give you one for FREE

The Nebraska Libraries on the Web project has been around since 2010 and is open to any public library in the state of Nebraska. If you're looking to move your library's Web site away from the version created with FrontPage back in 2002, have more than just a single page on your city or town's Web site, or create your library's first Web presence, this service is for you.

As a participant here's what you get:

- Nebraska Libraries on the Web uses the open source WordPress platform which currently supports more than 63 million Web sites around the world.
- WordPress is nearly infinitely customizable with more than 1,700 base themes to choose from and more than 24,000 plugins that can add nearly any feature that you'd want. If you need more server space or a new feature just ask.
- Multiple user accounts for your staff are available, providing you the ability to give different staff members different levels of access to your site.
- When you sign up the Nebraska Library Commission will provide you with some default content including a contact form and a calendar for your site. From there all you need to do is supply any additional information you'd like.

- All work is done through simple forms; no coding experience is needed.
- NLC staff provides all of the support and training you'll need along with a community of more than 50 other Nebraska libraries who currently host their Web site with us.
- NLC staff takes care of all of the software updates, security issues, and backups. All you need to do is provide the content.
- The system is hosted in-house at the Nebraska Library Commission and is connected to the Internet through the network of the State of Nebraska. This guarantees both highly reliable speeds and uptime of any service provider in the state.

And how much will it cost your library to participate? Nothing! We provide all this at no cost to you. All we ask is that you keep up with posting new content to your site on a regular basis and allow us to insert a small link back to the project's site and the NLC.

 If you are interested in signing up or want more information, head over to http://libraries.ne.gov/ and click on "Want to Participate?"

Nebraska Learns 2.0: An Ongoing Learning Resource for the Nebraska Library Community

The Nebraska Library Commission's online learning program, Nebraska Learns 2.0, debuted in 2008. The program is still going strong today and, over the years, we have been thrilled with the participation and conversations that have developed.

Nebraska Learns 2.0 (http://nlcblogs.nebraska.gov/nelearns/) is an ongoing self-discovery program which encourages participants to take control of their own learning and to utilize their lifelong learning skills through exploration and PLAY. The goal of the program is to encourage participants to experiment with and learn about the new and emerging technologies that are reshaping the way people, society and libraries access information and communicate with each other.

There are no formal classes or workshops offered to support this program. Instead, participants are encouraged to work together and share with each other their discoveries, techniques and "how to's", both in person and through their blogs.

Nebraska Learns 2.0 participants are offered an opportunity to do a new Thing each month. In Nebraska Learns 2.0., a "Thing" is essentially a Lesson. Participants have all month to complete that Thing and receive one CE credit. If you are busy one month, or taking a month long vacation, that's OK. You can just skip that month's Thing and participate again the next month. Participants are always welcome to go back and do Things they missed, however CE credit will only be award for completing the current month's Thing during that month.

Another facet of Nebraska Learns 2.0 is BookThing. Each month we pick a single title that we feel has relevance to librarianship and/or information theory. Some of the titles will be very obviously related, while others may not seem so on the surface, but there is a connection. Your assignment will be to read the book and create a blog post answering some questions about the title. Each title will be assigned a variable number of CE credits based on the length of the book. If you've previously read the month's choice, that's great! You don't have to re-read the book, unless you really want to. You are still welcome to participate by sharing your thoughts on the book.

If you are new to Nebraska Learns 2.0, your first assignment is to sign up to participate at: http://nlcblogs.nebraska.gov/nelearns/sign-up-2/ Then check out this month's Thing and BookThing on the program website at http://nlcblogs.nebraska.gov/nelearns/ This program is open to ALL Nebraska librarians, library staff, library friends, library board members and school media specialists.

We hope you'll join your library colleagues in the fun as you learn about new and exciting technologies!

Grant Awarded to Hildreth Friends of the Library

The Friends of the Hildreth Public Library received a helping hand recently, thanks to the generosity of a lifelong educator, the late Shirley Kreutz Bennett of Lincoln. Each year the Kreutz Bennett Donor-Advised Fund, an affiliated fund of the Nebraska Community Foundation (NCF), accepts proposals for matching grants for public libraries in communities with populations of fewer than 3,000.

Following Ms. Kreutz Bennett's wishes, a Fund Advisory Committee composed of her nieces and nephews recommends grants in three areas: planning grants leading to accreditation; enhancement grants to improve library services; and facilities grants for new construction or the renovation, restoration or rehabilitation of current libraries.

All grants require a certain level of matching funds and evidence that the project has broad community support. Approximately $70,000 is available each year. Grant seekers are encouraged to review the guidelines and application procedures at www.NebraskaHometown.org/fund/kreutzbennett.

Hildreth Friends of the Library was awarded $20,000 to help with a construction project that will double the size of the current library to 2,000 square feet and add an accessible public restroom. The additional space will allow for new acquisitions and physical space for digital technology equipment.

There are 228 libraries in Nebraska communities with populations under 3,000, which makes them eligible for a grant from the Kreutz Bennett Donor-Advised Fund. For more information. contact Reggi Carlson, NCF Communications Director, (402) 323-7331or

RVLS Board Nominations

Do you know someone who would be interested in serving on your Library System Board? The Republican Valley Library System is accepting nominations for three positions on the board for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 2013.

RVLS board members are elected at the Annual Meeting and serve for a 3-year term.

What is the Role of the System Board?

The System Board is the governing body of the Republican Valley Library System; its function is similar to that of a public library board of trustees or any non-profit corporation. Board member tasks include:

- Being an advocate for the System and System services
- Budget preparation
- Evaluation of System services and programs
- Design of specification for provision of System services

How Often Does the System Board Meet?

The System Board meets five times per year, at designated places around the system or by telephone conference call. Meetings usually last about two hours.

Are Members of the Board Reimbursed for Expenses?

Members are not permitted to receive a salary, wage or fee for their services. However, they are reimbursed for actual expenses incurred in carrying out their duties. The cost of travel to and from Board and committee meetings is reimbursed at the current Federal allowable rate; examples of other reimbursed expenses are telephone charges and postage.

Nominees for the positions may be library employees or library customers. Nominees representing any of the System counties are welcome. Deadline for nominations is May 30, 2013.

If you would like to be on the RVLS Board or someone you know would like to be on the Board, please contact Denise or Kay at the RVLS Office before May 30th, 2013.

Top 5 Tips for a Successful Book Club

Let's face it, book clubs are fantastic in theory, but they're really hard to pull off successfully in real life. However, whether you're an avid reader or not, it's a fun excuse to share ideas (and some wine) with a few friends. Many of us have been in book clubs that have crumbled quickly, or felt a bit more like school than a social activity. But what if book club was actually fun instead of stressful? What if the books were actually interesting instead of just impressive?

Here are a few tips to creating a successful book club.

- 1. Choose a demographic. If you are planning to read only chick lit, don't try to make it a couples book club. This goes for you too, guys... not willing to read anything fiction or that doesn't have a war, sports event, or serial killer in it? Don't join the co-ed group that might want to mix it up. However, obsessed with war? Can't get enough Young Adult? Then find others who adore the same genres and go from there!
- 2. Try to pick books that are under 400 pages. Somewhere around 300 pages seems to work best, long enough to be meaningful, short enough that people can finish. Honestly, most book clubs are more social than literary, but that's part of the fun! The book is just a great excuse to get together. So, save your Tolstoy for your own reading challenge and choose books that have quick, engaging plots. It will always be more fun to get together with a group that has actually read the book rather than two people who have and five people who didn't get past chapter three.
- 3. Be realistic with your schedule. Every month is a lot even for avid readers. Most people have a list of books that they would like to read, so if you are having book club every month it means they are having to put those books on the back burner (or are reading those books instead of the book club selection). Aim for every other month for a good balance (or even once a quarter if you're ok with a bigger gap). It's also important to keep to a time schedule. Two hours is a good amount of time to plan for. The first 45 minutes or so can be for #s 4 and 5 (below) and then the next hour and fifteen for the book. If you're leading, keep people on track so that the night doesn't drag on.
- 4. Incorporate food. Feed people. Make a sign up sheet and rotate who is bringing what. Trying to get home for dinner after work and then speed over to book club makes for some late people, puts off the discussion, and has everyone leaving later than they had planned (and less likely to want to come back).
- 5. Allow for some hang out time. It's pretty hard to jump right into the discussion of a book the moment everyone arrives it makes for a school-like atmosphere.. Allow time for people to decompress from their day and catch up with each other. This is the perfect time to eat (#4). Afterwards you can move away from the table and offer drinks to signal the time to start chatting about the book. If you are leading the night, refer to #3 – best to have people leave wanting more time than leave after having spent the last half hour devising a plan to get out of the next book club.
